This is Julia I am James jr's fiancé. Of almost 9 full years for as long as I can remember James sr would ALWAYS make me feel as welcome as possible even welcoming me into his own home when I was at a low point in my life James would always include me in family gatherings, trips with his family to just get away even family vacations and dinners when James would have off work he would spend his time playing video games such as mortal combat, god of war and he even gave Fortnite a chance just to have bonding time with his son also known as his literal twin James jr and his dad James sr was almost inseparable! They would sit on Xbox with their Mountain Dew and red bull every chance they could just for some "father and son bonding time" James sr was a kid at heart to say the least and was never ashamed to admit it (some words from James jr son of James sr) "dad this will most definitely be an extremely hard birthday without you I've never in my life felt pain like this to where I want to scream but even if I do that my heart feels like it could absolutely burst at any second as I type this I feel as if I lost my best friend my dad my gaming buddy and a part of me it hurts me so bad knowing I wasn't there with you to help you fight whatever battle you were fighting I love you forever dad please watch over me and protect me like you have always done and hopefully will continue to do I love you dad "it will never get easier you'll just learn how to live with it " I know you weren't my blood but you sure made me feel like I was always welcome I love you dad #2 thank you for all the lessons you have taught me and all you have done to make me feel welcome in the Britton household rest easy pop thank you for the great memories
